FREE hernia exams for men,
women and children.

What is a hernia?

A hernia occurs when an organ or tissue pushes through a weak area in the abdominal wall. This weak area may be present at birth, or it may be caused by abdominal strain over time. If not treated, a hernia can get worse.

Symptoms

A hernia in the abdomen or groin can produce a noticeable lump or bulge that can be pushed back in, or that can disappear when lying down.

More symptoms of a hernia include:

- Swelling or bulge in the groin or scrotum
- Increased pain at the site of the bulge
- Pain while lifting
- A dull aching sensation
- A sense of feeling full or signs of bowel obstruction

In the case of hiatal hernias there are no bulges on the outside of the body.

Instead, symptoms may include:

- heartburn or indigestion
- difficulty swallowing
- frequent regurgitation (bringing food back up)
- chest pain
